CAUTION

In December 2022, Volodimyr Pigida was found guilty by a jury in the Western District of Washington of 26 felony counts, including conspiracy, wire fraud, mail fraud, and bankruptcy fraud, among other crimes. In his over $11 million Ponzi scheme that defrauded thousands of victims, Pigida and his wife operated a "work-at-home" email scheme named "Trend Sound Promoter" that ultimately crashed—but not before the two raided the company's accounts to purchase homes, expensive cars, and a yacht.

A warrant has been issued for his arrest for violating conditions of supervision. On August 4, 2023, Pigida also failed to appear at the hearing for his sentencing.
