Active Shooter Incidents in the United States in 2020

Introduction

The FBI has designated 40 shootings⁵ in 2020 as active shooter incidents. The FBI defines an active shooter as one or more individuals actively engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a populated area. Implicit in this definition is the shooter’s use of a firearm. The active aspect of the definition inherently implies the ongoing nature of an incident, and thus the potential for the response to affect the outcome.

The FBI works proactively to identify incidents that meet the scope of this study, using internal FBI holdings and repositories, official law enforcement reports (when obtainable), as well as open-source data. However, there is no mandated database collection or central intake point for reporting active shooter incidents, as exists for other crimes.

The active shooter incident research in this report is valid as of May 24, 2021. If additional incidents meeting FBI criteria are identified after the publication of this document, every effort will be made to factor those incidents into future reporting.

When evaluating shooting incidents to determine if they met the FBI’s active shooter definition, researchers considered for inclusion:

- Shootings in public places
- Shootings occurring at more than one location
- Shootings where the shooter’s actions were not the result of another criminal act
- Shootings resulting in a mass killing⁴
- Shootings indicating apparent spontaneity by the shooter
- Shootings where the shooter appeared to methodically search for potential victims
- Shootings that appeared focused on injury to people, not buildings or objects

This report does not encompass all gun-related shootings. A gun-related incident was excluded if research established it was the result of:

- Self-defense
- Gang violence
- Drug violence
- Contained residential or domestic disputes
- Controlled barricade/hostage situations
- Crossfire as a byproduct of another ongoing criminal act
- An action that appeared not to have put other people in peril

This methodology was first articulated in A Study of Active Shooter Incidents in the United States Between 2000 and 2013 and was applied to the 2020 shooting incidents for consistency.⁵

This report is part of a series of FBI active shooter-related products published since September 2014. These reports are not intended to explore all facets of active shooter incidents but rather intended to provide law enforcement officers, other first responders, corporations, educators, and the public with a baseline understanding of active shooter incidents.

⁵ See page 20 for incident summaries.
⁴ U.S. federal government agencies define an active shooter as “an individual actively engaged in killing or attempting to kill people in a confined and populated area.” The FBI expands this definition to include more than one individual in an incident and omits the word confined as the term excludes incidents that occurred outside buildings.
⁴ The federal definition of “mass killing” which is defined as “three or more killings in a single incident.” Derived from Investigative Assistance for Violent Crimes Act of 2012, 28 USC300C(b)(1)(Mi).
Summary

Since 2016, active shooter incident data reveals an upward trend: The number of active shooter incidents identified in 2020 represents a 33% increase from 2019 and a 100% increase from 2016. A breakdown of number of incidents by year follows:

- 2016: 20
- 2017: 31
- 2018: 30
- 2019: 30
- 2020: 40

Casualties

The 40 active shooter incidents reviewed in this report resulted in 164 total casualties (38 killed and 126 wounded\(^\text{13}\), excluding the shooters). The incident with the highest number of total casualties (one killed and 16 wounded) occurred at 9ine Ultra Lounge in Kansas City, Missouri. The second highest number of casualties (nine wounded) occurred at an unspecified residential address in Manteca, California.

2020 Active Shooter Locations with Five Highest Total Casualty Counts

Summary

A breakdown of the incidents/locations with the five highest total casualty counts follows:

- 9ine Ultra Lounge, Kansas City, Missouri: 1 killed, 16 wounded
- Unspecified residential address, Manteca, California: 9 wounded
- Rebar Bar and Lounge, San Antonio, Texas: 8 wounded
- Infinity Lounge, Kingstree, South Carolina: 8 wounded
- Mayfair Mall, Wauwatosa, Wisconsin: 8 wounded

\(^{13}\) A number of those identified as wounded were not injured by gunfire but rather suffered injuries incidental to the shooting, such as being hit by flying objects/shattered glass or falling while running. For purposes of this study, the FBI sought to isolate the exact number of individuals who fell into this category when research permitted.
Figure 8.

Active Shooter Incidents 2016-2020
Total Casualty Count

*2017 includes the Route 91 Harvest Festival in Las Vegas, Nevada (58 killed, 489 wounded)

Summary

While the number of active shooter incidents doubled since 2016 (see Figure 1), casualty counts decreased to the lowest number in five years. Although there are several possible reasons for the decline in casualty counts, one potential explanation is that many people avoided public spaces during the COVID-19 pandemic lockdowns, which presented fewer active shooter casualty opportunities in target-rich environments (i.e., restaurants, movie theatres, stadiums, workplaces, schools, etc.).

The average number of casualties for the 2016-2019 period is approximately 358 per year, even with the inclusion of the atypical Route 91 Harvest Festival shooting in Las Vegas, Nevada.14 A breakdown of the number of total casualties by year follows:

- 2016: 214
- 2017: 734
- 2018: 225
- 2019: 258
- 2020: 164

14 The Route 91 Harvest Festival shooting impacts the 2017 casualty count (58 killed, 489 wounded).
The highest number of deaths from an active shooter incident in 2020 occurred at the Molson Coors building in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where five people were killed. The second highest number occurred at Kum & Go gas station in Springfield, Missouri, where four people were killed. There was a 63% decrease in people killed and a 19% decrease in people wounded in 2020 compared to 2019. A breakdown of the number of people killed and wounded over the past five years follows:

- 2016: 83 killed, 131 wounded
- 2017: 143 killed, 591 wounded\(^{15}\)
- 2018: 86 killed, 139 wounded
- 2019: 102 killed, 156 wounded
- 2020: 38 killed, 126 wounded

\(^{15}\) 2017 includes the Route 91 Harvest Festival in Las Vegas, Nevada (58 killed, 489 wounded)
Law Enforcement/Security Personnel Engagement and Casualties

In eight incidents\(^{16}\), law enforcement engaged the shooter. In three of those incidents, law enforcement sustained injuries (one was killed and six were wounded from gunfire).

- In one incident, two responding law enforcement officers exchanged gunfire with the shooter, which resulted in one officer’s death and the other officer sustaining injuries incidental to the shooting.\(^ {17}\)
- In one incident, a law enforcement officer was injured after being shot in the chest (a protective vest stopped a bullet).\(^ {18}\)
- In one incident, four law enforcement officers were wounded by gunfire over a two-day span. The first day, one responding officer was shot after the shooter opened fire at a police building. The second day, three officers were shot during an exchange of gunfire with the shooter.\(^ {19}\)

In two incidents\(^ {20}\), security personnel confronted the shooter; security personnel suffered no injuries in either incident.

Citizen Engagement and Casualties

In one incident\(^ {21}\), an unarmed citizen confronted the shooter and ended the incident, which resulted in no casualties.

\(^{22}\) In A Study of Active Shooter Incidents in the United States Between 2000 and 2013, the FBI identified 11 locations where the public was most at risk during an incident. These locations include commercial areas (divided into businesses open to pedestrian traffic, businesses closed to pedestrian traffic, and malls), education environments (divided into schools [pre-kindergarten through 12th grade] and institutions of higher learning), open spaces, government properties (divided into military and other government properties), residences, houses of worship, and health care facilities. In 2018, the FBI identified an additional location category (Other Location) to capture incidents that occurred in venues other than the 11 previously identified locations.

Recap and Conclusion

The FBI designated 40 shootings in 2020 as active shooter incidents. Thirty-eight people were killed and 126 wounded, excluding the shooters. The highest number of casualties (one killed and 16 wounded) occurred at 9ine Ultra Lounge in Kansas City, Missouri. The second highest number of casualties (nine wounded) occurred at an unspecified residential address in Manteca, California.

One law enforcement officer was killed. Eleven law enforcement officers were wounded (10 by gunfire, one from injuries incidental to the shooting). Two officers wounded by gunfire also sustained incidental injuries.

The 40 incidents were carried out by 42 shooters. Thirty-five shooters were male, three were female, and four were unspecified. Single shooters carried out 39 incidents; three shooters operating together carried out one incident. The shooters ranged in age: The youngest was 15 years old, and the oldest was 87 years old. One shooter wore body armor. Twenty-four shooters were apprehended by law enforcement, four shooters were killed by law enforcement officers, two shooters were killed by an armed citizen, seven shooters committed suicide, and five shooters remain at large.

Twenty-four active shooter incidents occurred in commerce-related environments. Four shooters were current employees (one shooter was the company owner), and one shooter was a former employee.

Ten incidents occurred in open spaces: two at a park; two at multiple urban and suburban locations, one in a neighborhood, one in a downtown area, one on a bridge, one in a campground, one on an interstate, and one at a public protest.

Three incidents occurred in residences: two attributed to neighbor grievances and one at a house party.

Three incidents occurred on government property: one at a police department, one at a naval air station, and one at a military recruiting center.

None of the total 40 incidents occurred in educational environments, health care facilities, or houses of worship.

In two incidents, security personnel confronted and killed the shooter; they suffered no casualties in either incident. An unarmed citizen confronted the shooter in one incident (an active-duty soldier waiting in traffic intervened by striking the shooter with his vehicle, ending the shooting). There were no citizen casualties.

52 Multiple locations in Henderson, Nevada, and Parker, Arizona.
Active shooter incidents in 2020 (40) increased by 33% compared to 2019 (30) and 100% compared to 2016 (20). Conversely, casualty counts are lower for 2020 (164) when compared to 2019 (258), indicating a 36.4% decrease. 2020 casualty data represents the lowest number in five years (2016-2020). Deaths are significantly down: 2020 saw 38 deaths compared to 103 killed in 2019, representing a 63% decrease. There were 126 wounded in 2020 compared to 2019, which saw 155 wounded, an 18.7% decrease.

Five of the 40 incidents met the criteria cited in the federal definition of mass killings. When compared to 2019, when there were 13 incidents that met the criteria, 2020 mass killings were down by 61% (or one for every eight incidents). 2019 mass killing numbers accounted for almost half the overall count, or one every second incident.

Although 2020 witnessed the highest rate of active shooter incidents for the period 2000 to 2020,53 casualties were significantly lower. There could be several reasons for the sharp decline in casualty counts. One potential explanation is that many people avoided public spaces during the COVID-19 pandemic, which presented fewer active shooter casualty opportunities in traditional target-rich environments (i.e., restaurants, movie theatres, sports stadiums, workplaces, schools, etc.). 2020 did see several national and prominent public protests drawing large crowds of people, essentially presenting a target-rich environment. However, there were only two active shooter incidents in these environments in 2020; the casualty totals for these two incidents accounted for one killed and six wounded.

The FBI remains dedicated to assisting federal, state, local, tribal, and campus law enforcement in its active shooter prevention, response, and recovery efforts, as well as to training its international law enforcement partners. The FBI remains steadfast in its efforts to train private citizens, as it is imperative that citizens understand the risks faced and the resources available in an active shooter situation.

As explained in the introduction to this report, the FBI evaluated and identified 40 active shooter incidents that occurred in 2020. Summaries of these incidents are listed below.
