CAUTION

Stefan Alexandru Barabas is wanted for his alleged involvement in the home invasion and attempted extortion of a female victim out of $8.5 million in South Kent, Connecticut. On April 15, 2007, Barabas and two accomplices who have since been arrested entered into the victim's residence and hid in a closet until the house staff departed. Late that night, Barabas and the others emerged with knives and guns, confronted the victim and her friend, and tied them up. Over the course of the night, Barabas and the others allegedly injected each victim with a supposedly deadly virus and demanded money in exchange for the antidote. After several hours of trying and failing to obtain the money, the victims were forced to drink a sleeping agent. Barabas and the others then stole a vehicle belonging to the victim and fled the residence.

On November 15, 2012, a federal arrest warrant was issued for Barabas in the United States District Court, District of Connecticut, New Haven, Connecticut, after he was charged with attempt to interfere with commerce by extortion, conspiracy to interfere with commerce by extortion, and possession of a stolen vehicle.
